TALKS ABOUT MISSISSIPPI

Hon, G. W. Ames Talks of that State in an Entertaining Manner.

CLIMATE GOOD AND SOIL VERY RICH

Claims that the Chances in that State Are Excellent for Northern Posh and Industry-Railroad and Educational Facilities Abundant.

Hon. George W. Ames has just returned from a visit to Mississippi points, where he has been for some time past. Mr. Ames is one of the most active business men of Omaha, has bad a long and varied experience in handling western real estate and has gained the reputation of being a conservative and successful business man of high standing. He was seen at his office this morning and asked to give his views on Mississippi, its general advantages, etc., which might prove of interest to the citizens of Omaha and the state at large.

Mr. Ames was found to be in a talkative mood and readily consented to be interviewed by a Bee man. He said: "My first impression was that while the people seemed prosperous and business thriving, still there was too much land in the hands of too few pro-prietors; in other words, that the day of large plantations was over and the most successful agriculturist today is the small

"The climate is a pleasant one even at this time of year, the heat being tempered daily by land and sea breezes and the nights are delightfully cool. There are but two months of mild winter weather and stock runs out during the entire year.
"The fertility of the soil is marvelous, and while cotton and corn are the staple products, yet the money makers of today are the truck farmers and fruit growers. These products of the soil are shipped in immense quantities to the great markets offered by New Orleans, St. Louis, Chicago and the far eastern cities. "The principal centers for raising and shipping fruit and garden truck are Crystal Springs, Terry, Madison, Durant and points near them. Crystal Springs alone during the week we were in its vicinity shipped daily from thirty to forty carloads of tomatoes and peaches and the surrounding stations were also making large shipments of fruit and garden products. The soil in this region seems especially adapted to fruit culture. Peaches, plums, apricots, strawberries, blackberries, pears, figs, grapes, pomgranates, persimmons are especially profitable and sure crops. Oranges for the last few years have been largely and successfully cultivated. Sorghum, sugar cane, rice, swee potatoes and peanuts we saw making good

"The magnificent growth of timber is a feature of this part of the state. It con-sists largely of poplar, white oak, beech, sycamore, maple, cypress, pine, gum, oak, camore, maple, cypress, pine, gum, oak, alberry and hickory, all of which are in

"Grasses are grown as cheaply and easily as anywhere in the country. Bermuda is the staple for hay and pasture, Johnson grass is very hardy and yields abundantly. Or-Chard grass and red top remain fresh and green during the entire winter. Red clover, affalfa, mellictus (sweet clover), cow pens and spedeza are regular crops.

"The raising of stock is sadly neglected, although we saw quite a number of cattle and hogs. The trouble is that too little attention nogs. The trouble is that too little attention is paid to stock raising and the breed is very poor owing to the lack of attention, which has caused it to deteriorate in quality. This could also be made a very profitable source of revenue with better attention."

"We found the negroes well treated, conprosperous. They have ample educational facilities provided by the state and their col leges are well conducted and flourishing Negro labor is cheap and when properly handled proves satisfactory. "The railroads are controlled by three railroad commissioners who are elected by the people and regulate freight and passenger through the central portion of the state and the Delta country. The Mobile & Ohio Queen & Crescent, Louisville & Nashville, Southern railway, Natchez, Jackson & Columbus afford ample facilities for the bal ance of the state.

"Educational facilities are good and the enrollment in the public schools has increased about 20 per cent in the past eight or nine years. The public school system was organized in 1870 or 1871 and for its maintenance the state expends $1,500,000 each year."
"Business in all the smaller towns seemed to be in a flourishing condition. The mer-chants are satisfied and the banks are well supplied with money. Jackson, the capital of the state, surrounded by a productive coun-try, is on the main line of the Illinois Central and Queen & Crescent roads and is capable of becoming quite a business point. The best town in the state, however, is Meridian. Its railroad facilities are excellent and its jobbing and manufacturing interests being in the hands of live, energetic men, are con-stantly growing. In fact, Meridian is today the best town in the state and its prospects ontlined growth and prosperity are very

"Northerners are commencing to realize the advantages offered by the south and Missisreceiving her quota of the new The general impression among observing men is that the tide of immigration is moving southward. The southern people appreciate the situation and welcome the good citizen with open arms to their land of undeveloped possibilities. The new, practical, progressive south cannot but attract, by its manifest advantages, the best class of settlers and I predict that its growth and improvement from now on will be something seldom equaled in the history of our country's devel opment and never surpassed. In fact the place today to make money is the south. No northern man can fail of success if he will use there one-half the energy he does in this

Next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at Boyd's merriment will reign supreme, the occasion being the long-looked for engagement of Hoyt's enormous success, "A Black Sheep." This is the latest work of this popular playwright, and it is the unanimous verdict of the critics everywhere it has been presented that of all the many successes that Charles Hoyt has produced "A Black Sheep" is by all odds his best work, and has already proven his greatest financial success. The production of "A Black Sheep" is a sumptuous one. All the scenery, of which there are three sets, has been especially painted by the celebrated scenic artist, Ar-thur Voogtlin. The piece is a farce compatpainted by the celebrated scenic artist, Arthur Voegtiin. The piece is a farce comedy, written in Hoyt's best vein, repiete with spirited, catchy music, witty dialogue, ridiculously funny situations, and a host of vaude-ville features that are distinctly new and of a novel nature. The cast is the strongest ever organized by Mr. Hoyt, and is headed by Otis Harlan, who, as a clever, versatile commedian, ranks among the best, and whose admirers are numbered by the thousands. That "A Black Sheep" will receive a hearty welcome there can be no doubt, for of all the attractions that visit this city none have so strong a hold upon theater-goers as the comedies offered by Charles Hoyt, and "A Black Sheep" being his latest Hoyt, and "A Black Sheep" being his latest quecess, and this being its first presentation here, and coming direct from its big Chicago run, this engagement has created more than daily the vegetables which they have grown. The fact that these people steal our potatoes is proof of the success of the enterprise. Vigorous steps will be taken to protect the property," said Mr. Laughland.

Chairman Williams of the county board, which has some interest in the affair, states that he is highly satisfied with the regults obtained by Mayor Bemis and Secretary Laughland in carrying out the work. 1½ pints flour, ½ pint corn meal (white), 1 teaspoonful sait. 2 teaspoonfuls Royal Baking Powder, 1 tablespoonful lard, ¾ pint milk. Sift together flour, corn meal, sait and powder; rub in lard cold, add the milk, mix smoothly into rather farmer dough than usual. Flour the board, turn out the dough, soft brush, dipped in milk to glaze them. Bake in hot oven from 10 to 12 minutes.

BAIL NOT ALLOWED MRS. ISH

She Pleads Not Guilty to Charge of Murder in the First Degree.

Will Be Kept in a Separate Room in the Residence Portion of the Jail-Further Effort for Ball May Be Made.

Mrs. Mabel E. Ish, charged, as well as William H. Chapple, appeared yesterday morning in the district court, before the riminal judge, to plead to the information and ask for bail. While she did not succeed in getting the desired liberty, the matter was left in such a form that she may renew her application whenever she desires. To the charge of murder in the first degree she answered, "Not guilty" in a clear ceal her emotion. The attorney who represented the prosecution was asked if the state would undertake to prove that Mrs. Ish actually did the firling, as charged in the, information, to which he replied that the state could prove its case by showing that she was present aiding and abetting Ish in the commission of the crime. It was late before the reading of the in-1 lot of men's 26-inch umbrellas, gloria formation was completed, because it was found necessary to serve Mrs. Ish with a copy, and the state, as a precautionary measure, refused to go on until it was done, al-though her attorney's offered to waive the service. Having completed this preliminary. Mrs. Ish's attorneys presented the motion for bail. Her attorneys had a physician in attendance, and offered to show that it would result seriously upon the health of both Mrs. Ish and her child to be confined in jall, and urged as a special reason, under the circumstances, to show that for two weeks, while full opportunity offered, Mrs. Ish made no attempt to leave the state or evade a trial. The court professed to find a clashing of his sympathies with the law, and chose the latter Sheriff Drexel was summoned to ascertain if a separate room could not be provided in the front part of the jail. Mrs. Ish's attorthe front part of the jail. Mrs. Ish's attorneys looked at the decision as only tentative, saving the right to apply again for ball. Mrs. Ish, on her trial, will be confronted by thirtyone witnesses.

But we have gained knowledge though-that there are enough people here who are ever ready to part with money when opportunity bids. There are times when the best of clothing has no value-commercially speaking-Here an example is another case.

$10.00 SUITS AT $5.50

Now $10.00 suits-here at least-are always worth $10.00 and that amount each suit would cost if we hadn't bought about 500 of them too much. But we did, and sorry for it. However sympathy does not help to sell 'em, so we settle it by chopping off nigh on to half of the original prices and say: Take it or leave it at Five fifty a sult, 5 different kinds of cloth-every one all wool; five different patterns-gray, slate, black, a light mixture-and a dark plaid. Each cut style. Linings and trimmings are precisely as all of our clothing (value permitting) receive-the best. All sizes here. Come at any time, but if you wear a medium size

one a sack, long cut, some of 3 button cutaway, some 1-button round
